

Natural Money vs. Fiat Money

What Happened When Money was Switched From Asset-Backed to Fiat in 1971?

This chart courtesy BMGBullion.com shows the increase in the monetary value of gold when nations were on the gold standard (+0.4% per year), compared to the rise in the gold price since 1971, when the last nation (the USA) abandoned the gold standard. Since 1971 gold has increased in price by +9.3% per year. (This includes the current pullback that has taken place since 2011!) As long as central banks continue to print money, this 9.3% per year increase can be expected to continue. When nations were on the gold standard, prior to 1971, they were limited to the amounts of money they could print. Since 1971 there are no limits! Protect yourself – include gold and or silver in your nest egg!
